Double Sufficiently | fabi architekten bda
Regensburg | Germany | 2014

The theme of "semi-detached-house" meaningfully interpreted: a whole from two individual needs formed in common. plenty of room for privacy and a high degree of individuality bidder. Two totally independent entrance are facing away from each other and underline the impression of life in a single house. The slender gable roof structure is parallel to the slope and follows its height development of the natural topography of the site and formed an "lower court". The fully glazed facade in the garden level allows the interior and exterior merge. Entangled air spaces connect the levels overlooking references through all the floors. Sufficiency as a self-limiting, but also as profit by simplifying processes of life and use clear, robust materials that lose neither visually nor technically in aging their quality. The color scheme follows the sounds of nature.
